

Knight and Johnson selected to receive Wendy's HS Heisman

Special to SW Rankin News

Two Florence High School students, Olivia Knight and Jaylon Johnson, were selected to receive the Wendy's High School Heisman. The Heisman is awarded annually to seniors who excel both in the classroom and on the playing field. Students must also be proven leaders in the school community and have documented community service.

Knight, daughter of Carey and Kathy Knight, has been selected as an All-American for the last two years in varsity dance and has won various awards with the team and as a soloist. She is also a member of the Big Red Band's All Superior Color Guard and plays the bass clarinet with the concert band. Knight has also maintained a 4.0 grade point average and is enrolled in honors, advanced placement, and dual credit courses.

Johnson, son of Audrey Haynes, has been a district champion with the FHS Track and Field Team. He has been selected first team All-District for the past two years with the FHS Basketball Team. He has also been selected as a Merit Health Scholar for the past two years. Johnson has maintained a 4.0 grade point average and is enrolled in dual credit, honors, and advanced placement courses. In addition to being selected as a local winner, Johnson was selected as a state finalist for the Wendy's Heisman.

Center for Violence Prevention offers shelter, counseling

By Susie A. Wolfe

The Center for Violence Prevention is located in Pearl, but covers Claiborne, Copiah, Hinds, Issaquena, Madison, Rankin, Sharkey, Simpson, Warren and Yazoo counties, and is the only human trafficking shelter in the state.

Executive Director Sandy Middleton has been with the full-service victim agency for 15 years and has seen it grow from four employees with a budget of $250,000 to 40 employees operating a $2.1 million budget that helps victims of domestic violence, sexual assault, rape, survivors of homicide, and human trafficking. Federal grants help the shelter, but they require matching funds, which come from community donations from citizens, churches, service groups, among others.

The need is there, according to Middleton. One in four women will be a victim of domestic violence in her lifetime, while one in six will be the victim of sexual assault. She said they have seen 50 victims of human trafficking in the last year, fifteen of which were children.

According to Pearl Prosecutor Troy

In addition to financial support, the Center for Violence Prevention needs volunteers to work with victims. She said they have twenty now but could use more. They also invite individuals or businesses to donate their professional services, such as dentists, cosmetologists, accountants, etc. One example of a recent professional service donation was Cummins, which that donated oil changes.

The Center also needs gently-used donations to their Second Chance Resale Store located in Bright Shopping Center near First Baptist Church in Pearl. According to weekly Second Chance store shopper Denice Jamison, a nurse at Mississippi State Hospital, said she shops there because there are great prices on good merchandise, but because the proceeds of the sales also benefit abused or battered women and children.

Odom elected Chancery judge

By Susie A. Wolfe

Troy Odom was elected Rankin County Chancery Judge, Place Two, on November 27. He has served as the Pearl prosecutor one and a half years but will start his new duties on the bench January 2.

"I look forward to getting to work hearing cases and helping move the docket efficiently," said Odom, who has practiced Chancery family law with Blair & Bondurant, P.A for the last sixteen and a half years. He was one of three partners in the firm located at the Reservoir.

"Working with Pearl was the most fun I have ever had practicing law," said Odom, who said he will miss working with the people in Pearl but will still be involved with Pearl residents and others around the county.

Odom, a graduate of the University of Mississippi and Mississippi College, is also an adjunct professor at the Mississippi College School of Law, where he teaches oil and gas to second-and third-year law students. With his dad being in the military, he was raised all over the country, but he met his wife at Ole Miss, and they settled in Brandon.

He said he is glad the campaign is

Pearl Municipal Broadcasting serving the community

By Susie A. Wolfe

Pearl Municipal Broadcasting (PMB) is its tenth season of producing and distributing educational, governmental, and local programming serving the City of Pearl and the surrounding areas. Pearl is the first Mississippi city to own a radio station and one of only a few to operate a television station that keeps citizens informed, broadcasts City events, and offers Pearl High and Hinds Community College students hands-on experience in its state-of-the-art studio at 2422 Old Brandon Road or in its Mobile Production Unit.

"We strive to provide positive entertainment programming, respond to community needs, address local government issues, and help bring education into the home," said Frank Hutton, City of Pearl IT and Communications Director. "Our goal is to foster a sense of community in the City of Pearl and its neighboring communities through the use of our cable channel along with our low power FM radio station, WPBP 104.5 FM."

In addition to keeping the City's 300 employees' computers up and running, Hutton along with his two-person crew, Greg Cupstid and Josh Hamby, a student at Hinds, cover regular board meetings, every ribbon cutting, parades, plays and high school athletics. Also, they manage 24/7 online streaming at cityofpearl.com.

Frank Hutton serves the City of Pearl as IT and communications director. He manages PMB, which is now in its tenth season.

PMBtv20 is carried locally on Comcast Cable channel 20 and on channel 99 on AT&T Uverse. Founded in 1998, PMBtv started as an information only channel running multiple VCRs and PowerPoints listing current events inside the City of Pearl. Since, PMBtv has evolved into a fully functioning television station broadcasting live events, Pearl High School sports, as well as professionally-produced programs. Similar to Mississippi Educational Television, the Pearl station offers underwriting instead of advertising.

ed at Center City, the station broadcasts a variety of music from yesterday's favorites to today's biggest hits. It is the home for all Pearl High School Athletic events to include football, baseball, basketball, and more.

"The Pirate," which has the slogan "we play everything, well almost," plays every genre of music including Top 40, classic rock, contemporary country, 60s, 70s, 80s, 90s, and alternative rock. Weekly shows include the Frank Hutton Radio Show broadcast Wednesday at 4 p.m. for two hours; Defining Moments with Larry Nix, Thursday 11-12; Retro in the Metro Rob Vanzant plays 80s hairband music Thursday at 4 p.m.; Dirty House of Rock with Crash featuring local rock musicians; The Underground contemporary Christian rock and roll Saturday 9 p.m. to midnight; and After Dark, overnight every night.

According to Hutton, PMB has the same equipment and studio as tier one network television stations like CBS, ESPN or Fox, just on a smaller scale. Despite their size, they have set the bar for school broadcasts, being the first station in the State of Mississippi to broadcast live on television, the Internet and Facebook. Tune in to find out what's coming next.

Love our community this Christmas season

By Brian Rester,
Discipleship Pastor, The Exchange

Special to SW Rankin News

The Christmas season is a time where we can show the people of our community that Jesus loves them. One of the key phrases around The Exchange is "Get Life, Give Life." We have received a great gift of new life through what Jesus has done for us, and, because of that great gift received, our goal is to love others just as Jesus has loved us. There are so many people in our community who have not experienced this love, and we want to be the tool God uses to reach them.

One of the ways The Exchange is going to love our community this Christmas season is through an event happening at Pearl City Park on December 14 at 6:30 p.m. called Christmas in the Park. This is an event that will feature hot chocolate, cookies, inflatables, Christmas movies, Christmas games, a petting zoo, Disney characters, and pictures with Santa! It is a totally free event for families to come and hang out in a safe environment and enjoy some Christmas fun!

Another thing The Exchange is doing to love our community this Christmas is called Operation Give. This is an opportunity for our family just to say "We care about you" to our community. During the Christmas season, The Exchange will be purchasing and delivering Christmas gifts for over 1,000 children in Pearl. We want to be a spiritual house that reaches out into our community to love those around us like Jesus has loved us. If you are interested in find-

Mississippi Counseling Association names Jan Lemon to key post

Special to SW Rankin News

Starting in June 2019, Jan Lemon will serve as president-elect of the Mississippi Counseling Association.

A Florence resident and Mississippi College counseling professor, Dr. Lemon was elected to the leadership posts at the Mississippi Counseling Association's Fall conference.

Founded in 1950, the MCA encourages personal and professional development among counselors. The group partners with the American Counseling Association. Counselors work at mental health agencies, schools, private practices, the military, rehabilitation centers, and elsewhere across the USA. Mississippi College colleagues salute Lemon, a former Florence High senior counselor for 18 years before joining the Christian university faculty in August 2011.

"Jan Lemon is a true professional counselor and educator," said Ron Howard, vice president for academic affairs. "Her work has touched the lives of literally thousands, and in the most positive ways. She has contributed so very much to the MC counseling program."

Peers have long recognized her career accomplishments. In 2015, Lemon was named the School of Education's Distinguished Professor of the Year at Mississippi College. Lemon is a former president of the Mississippi School Counseling Association.

Moving up the ranks at the Mississippi Counseling Association is an honor and humbling experience, Lemon said. She seeks to improve counseling services and client outcomes among all Mississippi populations. "My hope is that our association will advance and unite counseling more broadly to insure growth and success for each clinician."

When Amy Marler found out a family member was having breathing issues and nausea, she first thought it was food poisoning. But with symptoms worsening, she immediately decided to rush her loved one to the Merit Health Rankin emergency room. Upon arrival they were quickly triaged and within a few minutes a physician was in their room assessing the situation. After careful observation and a thorough treatment plan, the ER physician discharged them home and the patient made a complete recovery. Amy said, "My first instinct was to go to the Merit Health Rankin ER and I'm so glad we did. We were treated with compassion and a sense of urgency that let us know we were important to them.
